Account Holder

The term Account Holder refers to the person maintained or identified by the Financial Institution at which the account is maintained as the holder of a financial account (in the case of life insurance: as the policyholder or the economic beneficiary of a policy). A person who is not a Financial Institution and maintains a financial account as representative, depository, appointee, signatory, investment advisor or intermediary on behalf or for the account of another person is not considered to be the Account Holder within the meaning of AEOL; in this case the other person is the Account Holder. In the context of the bank accounts of trusts, the trust itself and not the trustee is the Account Holder for AEOL purposes.

Active NFE

An NFE is an Active NFE if the requirements of one or more of the following subcategories are met:

- Active NFE based on the type of earnings and assets:
 - Less than 50% of the NFE's gross earnings in the preceding calendar year or another suitable reporting period are passive earnings (e.g. dividends, interest, rental income, licensing income, annuities), and less than 50% of the assets in the possession of the NFE in the preceding calendar year or another suitable reporting period are assets with which passive earnings are made or to be made.
- Publicly traded NFE: The shares of the NFE are traded regularly on a recognized stock exchange.
- Affiliated Legal Entity of a publicly traded legal entity: The NFE is an affiliated legal entity of a legal entity, the shares of which are traded regularly on a recognized stock exchange.
- State-Owned Entity, International Organization or Central Bank:
 - The NFE is a state-owned legal entity, an international organization, a central bank, or another legal entity that is wholly controlled by one or more of these institutions.
- Holding NFE that is part of a Non-Financial Group:
 - The business of the NFE consists essentially in holding all (or a part) of the issued shares of one or more subsidiaries that conduct transactions or business outside the scope of business of financial institutions, or in financing such subsidiaries, or in rendering services for the subsidiaries. Entities that serve (or hold out to serve) as investment trusts, for instance private equity funds, venture capital funds, leveraged buyout funds or other special-purpose vehicles aimed at acquiring or financing enterprises and then holding shares in such companies for investment purposes, are not considered to be such NFEs.
- Start-up NFE:
 - The NFE is not doing business yet and has never done business, but is nonetheless investing in assets with the aim of doing business other than the business of a financial institution. After the expiry of a period of 24 months of its establishment, the NFE no longer meets the requirements of this exception.
- NFE in Liquidation or Reorganization:
 - The NFE was not a financial institution in the last five years and is in the progress of liquidating or reorganizing its assets in order to continue or restart business other than the business of a financial institution.
- Treasury Center that is part of a Non-Financial Group:
 - The business of the NFE consists mainly in the financing and hedging of transactions with or for affiliated companies that are not financial institutions, and it does not provide any financing or hedging services for companies that are not affiliated companies, inasmuch as the group of these affiliated companies does business mainly outside the scope of business of financial institutions.
- Non-Profit NFE:
 - The NFE meets the following cumulative requirements:
 - It was established exclusively for religious, charitable, scientific, artistic, cultural, sports or education purposes in its country of residence, and is operated for these purposes; or it was established as a professional organization, business association, chamber of commerce, labor organization, agricultural or horticultural organization, civic association or organization serving solely to promote social welfare in its country of residence, and is operated for these purposes;
 - It is exempt from income tax in its country of residence;
 - It does not have any shareholders or members participating in its revenues or assets as owners or beneficiaries;
 - The laws applicable in the NFE's country of residence or the NFE's articles of association do not allow earnings or assets of the NFE to be paid out to natural persons or commercial entities, except when such payment is made within the scope of the NFE's non-profit activities or as reasonable consideration for services rendered or as payment of the fair market price for goods that the NFE has purchased; and
 - The laws applicable in the NFE's country of residence or the NFE's articles of association provide for the NFE's entire assets to go to a state-owned entity or to another non-profit organization, or to devolve upon the government of the NFE's country of residence or a territorial entity in this country upon liquidation or dissolution of the NFE.
